

Roger Schutgens, MD, PhD, MSc

Professor of Thrombosis and Hemostasis

Consultant Hematologist, Epidemiologist

Head of Department

Van Creveldkliniek, Center for benign hematology, thrombosis and hemostasis

University Medical Centre Utrecht

Utrecht, The Netherlands

Roger Schutgens is a Consultant Haematologist at the University Medical Centre Utrecht. His main responsibilities include care, research and education in the area of benign hematology and clotting diseases. Prof. Schutgens is the Head of the Van Creveldkliniek, a national expertise center for rare and inherited benign hematologic disorders, thrombosis and haemostasis. He completed his medical degree from Catholic University Leuven, Belgium and he completed his PhD from Utrecht University, The Netherlands. He is secretary of the Dutch Society for Thrombosis and Haemostasis. He has published over 150 peer reviewed articles. Prof. Schutgens areas of focus include patients predisposed to bleeding, congenital abnormalities of platelets and hypercoagulable conditions.